Baltimore has a history that can be traced back to prehistoric times. Pirates, smugglers and sea battles all had a share in the story. In 1631 much of the population was carried off by pirates never to be seen again in an event known as the Sack of Baltimore. The village recovered fully and today the labyrinth of creeks and islands once the haunt of pirates is now a playground for seafarers of a more peaceful kind. The community has waymarked a number of trails around Baltimore to help you explore this area.

Walks

Coney Walk (Green arrows) is 2.8 km on road and track. The track section is uneven. Not suitable for buggies.

Beacon Walk (Blue arrows) is 3.2 km on road. The beacon is not part of this walk. Care is required if walkers leave the road and access the land around the beacon.

Hill Loop Walk (Orange arrows) is 2.1 km on track and road.

All Walks are suitable for most levels of fitness.
